In the modern era, it is important to provide a safe platform to our girl child for understanding the importance of reproductive health and hygiene. Project Naritva, initiated by Enactus Thapar, is a project which is aimed to create a more safe and healthy environment in order to break the taboo around reproductive health so as to understand it better.

They are organising an online awareness session for girls of classes 11-12, to help them to gain information, skills and motivation to make healthy decisions about reproductive health and hygiene.

Date and Timings: 14.08.21 (Saturday)

Timings: 5pm

It would be helpful if mother or any other senior female family member accompanies the child.

All participants will be acknowledged with an e-certificate issued by Enactus Thapar.
